

Dear Principal

I'm writing you today in support of the Day of Silence, a national student-led movement to end harassment and discrimination against people because of their actual or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity/expression. Last year over 400,000 students participated in the Day of Silence in over 4,000 schools, colleges, and universities across the country. GLSEN's 2003 National School Climate Survey found that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) youth who had teachers supportive of LGBT issues reported getting better grades and were more likely to plan on going to college. [www.glsen.org]

I'm asking you to help ensure that all students feel welcome at school by providing a training for school administration on LGBT issues, stopping harassment and discrimination, and ensuring that our school is a safe and effective space for all.

Thank you,

---

---

Dear Principal

I'm writing you today in support of the Day of Silence, a national student-led movement to end harassment and discrimination against people because of their actual or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity/expression. Last year over 400,000 students participated in the Day of Silence in over 4,000 schools, colleges, and universities across the country. GLSEN's 2003 National School Climate Survey found that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) youth who had teachers supportive of LGBT issues reported getting better grades and were more likely to plan on going to college. [www.glsen.org]

I'm asking you to help ensure that all students feel welcome at school by providing a training for school administration on LGBT issues, stopping harassment and discrimination, and ensuring that our school is a safe and effective space for all.

Thank you,

---

---

Dear Principal

I'm writing you today in support of the Day of Silence, a national student-led movement to end harassment and discrimination against people because of their actual or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity/expression. Last year over 400,000 students participated in the Day of Silence in over 4,000 schools, colleges, and universities across the country. GLSEN's 2003 National School Climate Survey found that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) youth who had teachers supportive of LGBT issues reported getting better grades and were more likely to plan on going to college. [www.glsen.org]

I'm asking you to help ensure that all students feel welcome at school by providing a training for school administration on LGBT issues, stopping harassment and discrimination, and ensuring that our school is a safe and effective space for all.

Thank you,

---

---

Dear Principal

I'm writing you today in support of the Day of Silence, a national student-led movement to end harassment and discrimination against people because of their actual or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity/expression. Last year over 400,000 students participated in the Day of Silence in over 4,000 schools, colleges, and universities across the country. GLSEN's 2003 National School Climate Survey found that lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) youth who had teachers supportive of LGBT issues reported getting better grades and were more likely to plan on going to college. [www.glsen.org]

I'm asking you to help ensure that all students feel welcome at school by providing a training for school administration on LGBT issues, stopping harassment and discrimination, and ensuring that our school is a safe and effective space for all.

Thank you,

---

---